What does a bevel gear cost? The Ford owner saves $12 that the other fellow has to pay for one

$16.00—Average cost of the bevel gear of our price

around $1.00 and less.

$4.00—Cost of Ford bevel gear.

$12.00—Price stays in the Ford owner's pocket book.

Other Ford spare parts are just as low priced in proportion—the 20 most called for parts all together cost only $9.00.

And less than a dollar a year as a total expense for spare parts is just an insignificant experience of Ford owners.

Town Will Issue Writs Against Delinquents

At the regular meeting of the town council held this evening, the question of finances was introduced by the finance committee.

A list of names of parties owing large amounts of taxes, and who were in a position to pay them, but would not, was handed in by the secretary. The list contained the names of some of our most prominent citizens, who have children attending the public school, and who are enjoying all the public privileges of the town without paying a cent therefor. One individual named Nicoforo has stated over and over again that he would not pay any more taxes. Some time ago this individual refused to accede to the request of the sanitary inspector to clean up the putrifying rubbish accumulated around his premises.

The council at this evening's meeting decided definitely to take steps to enforce the payment of taxes or other accounts due the town, and will at once issue writs against the delinquents.

The town is at present up against a trying problem. The school has to be maintained, and the teachers have not been paid for the past two or three months. Little or no revenue has been coming in, and until the present year's taxes are demanded, there is no other means of getting revenue except from the arrearages.

The town should have no place for such a class as will come in for no other purpose but to accumulate the wealth of money or real estate, and never pay for the privilege of being a citizen.

Earl Kitchener Lost at Sea

A telegram from Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, commander of the British fleet, was received in London on June 6th, as follows:

"I have to report with deep regret that his majesty's ship Hampshire, Capt. Herbert J. Saxville, R.N., with Lord Kitchener and his staff on board, was sunk last night at about 8 p.m. to the west of the Orkney Islands by a mine or torpedo. Four boats were seen by observers on shore to leave the ship. The ship was blowing northwest and heavy seas were running. Patrol vessels and destroyers at once proceeded to the spot and a party was sent along the coast to search. Several bodies and capsize boats have been found up to the present. As the whole has been searched from the seaward I greatly fear that there is little hope of there being any survivors. No report has yet been received from the search party on shore. H.M.S. Hampshire was on her way to Russia."

This is the second shock the empire has suffered within two weeks. The other was when the newspapers appeared on Friday with the first information of the naval battle in the North Sea in the form of a list of ships lost, with virtually no information that there was any compensation in the way of enemy losses.

Earl Kitchener met his death at a moment which will insure his position in British history. He was almost the only member of the government who from the beginning confidently asserted that this would be a long war; his lowest estimate being three years and he insisted that the government should make its plans accordingly. The organization of the enormous new British army is well under way. The general staff under Gen. Sir William Robertson's direction, according to the belief of the public, has well in hand the task of working out the details which Kitchener's brain was largely instrumental in planning and launching.

Big Profits in Hotel Investments

Hotel investments in most parts of Canada, and particularly in Ontario, have depreciated very much in value owing to the spread of prohibition, and many owners are in liquidation.

But there is no need for this. On the other hand a new and much better era should now open. Hotel-keeping has proved to be, and may in Canada, be made, one of the most profitable and reputable of businesses. It is the most promising field for business development we know of today for ambitious capable young men.

The trouble is that our hotels have been conducted on the wrong lines. The bar has been regarded as the chief attraction. Most hotel-keepers have not been business men but liquor handlers. Lodging and food have been merely an incident. Some of them expect to lose money on their tables. The wastefulness was appalling yet the supplying of good food and good accommodation is one of the most profitable businesses in the world today. In Canada it has been more or less of a disgrace to be associated with, or even seen in, an hotel. In Europe and the United States some of the richest and most prominent families socially are investing and making huge fortunes after they have left the hotel is becoming a social disgrace.

The most successful hotel-keepers are men who have in the hotel business, and who have the hotel as a business, not as a social disgrace. The Hotel Ritz in Paris is probably the finest in the world. Mr. Ritz, when the Hotel Ritz first opened, had been promoted to assist in the management of the Savoy Hotel, London. The present general manager of the Ritz, Mr. Ellis, was his head waiter. Like so many successful hotel-keepers are both of Swiss birth. George B. Bilt, of the Waldorf-Astoria, and other big hotels in the States, is the largest hotel owner in the world, with a net income of well over a million, perhaps a couple of millions, a year. He worked his way up from the kitchen. Fred Steyer, manager of The Plaza and other big American hotels, also worked his way up through all departments. The departments, of which these men know best, in their business, is the bar.

It is not only the big hotels that have been marvellously successful when managed by men of capacity, who learn the business from the ground up, and who have developed executive ability, but some of the small hotels have been remarkably profitable. We know of one hotel, in a town of only 17,000, managed by a man who began, when a boy, getting out in the kitchen of a big city hotel. As a result of his long experience, perfectly appointed rooms and efficient management, the profits of this home have steadily crept up until, in 1915, they reached $26,000. Today the building is being nearly doubled in size to meet the demand of good service. So little does this manager think of his hotel in his new building, he is putting it in the background, as he is satisfied that in a very short time, liquor selling will be eliminated.

Investors in hotel properties should deal with men as a manufacturer and retailing proposition. Managers, or have them managed, by experienced business men. Give a quality service, advertise and build a reputation, but do not make a name for his name or trade mark. The traveling and local police will flock to them.

Dun is a Celtic suffix common to a number of ancient places; Loud Isoudun, Chateaudun, Sivirdun. The Latins converted dun into dunum to indicate a fortified castle. Verdun the time of the Gauls was then now an obstacle in the way of enemy approaching from the West.

A great number of names of places thus: "Bois-vert," "Bois-noir," "Bois-enchâssés" — greenwood, black wood, chopped wood. Bois-noir the Roman speech was called "Nigellus."

Altogether, since the beginning of the war, about 30,000,000 francs or $16,000,000 had been spent in France in relief work by the three branches of the French Red Cross, which are maintaining 118,000 beds in 1,600 hospitals at an outlay of nearly 5,000,000 francs monthly.

Bilingualism was condemned at the recent session of the Alberta Methodist conference. The following resolution in that respect was passed:

"Whereas we are firmly convinced that a strong national life can only be established by the use of one language in the educational institutions in the country, and

Whereas it is necessary to unify the widely diverse elements that enter into the composition of our nation.

We recommend that the Alberta Methodist Conference place itself on record as being unalterably opposed to the principle of bilingualism.

And furthermore that hearty approval be expressed of the action of the Alberta representatives who opposed bilingualism in the recent session of the Dominion parliament."

The British cruiser Hampshire, which was sent to bottom either by explosion with a mine or by a Hun torpedo, was found by the British ship Kitchener and her crew and a crew of upwards of 300 men, was of the Devonshire type, completed in 1905. She had a displacement of 10,850 tons, with 21,000 horse power. Her armament consisted of four 7.5 inch guns and six 4 inch guns. The Hampshire was sunk off the Okney while enroute to Russia.

A considerable dust was raised on Tuesday evening last by a team and democrat passing through Blairmore, and on investigation we found that the dust was driven high by a pair of old dogs attached to a wagon which contained all that remained of a newly married couple—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Haines, of Coleman. Mr. and Mrs. Haines came as such through the kind action of Rev. P. E. Allen, of Coleman, who in the holy matrimony united the fortunes of Miss Annie Shyne to Thomas Haines. A number of immediate friends were in attendance at the ceremony, some of whom were responsible for depriving the young couple from pulling off the affair quietly by attaching the ancient emblem to the vehicle. The young couple entrained at Frank; for Calgary, Banff and Berlin, and after a week's honeymoon trip will take up residence at Coleman. They have already accepted our congratulations and enter upon the staid pursuit of married life, and the well-wishes of their numerous friends.
